

quality coloring material is imported for sale in the United States by Ciba Specialty Chemicals Corporation (Pigments Division), a company located in Newport, Delaware. By temporarily suspending the imposition of duties, this bill will reduce significantly the cost of a coloring material that is used in a wide variety of finished products.

Finally, I am pleased to introduce a bill to suspend temporarily the imposition of duties on imports of Triflusulfuron Methyl. By temporarily suspending the imposition of duties, this bill will help DuPont, a company located in Wilmington, Delaware, lower its cost of production and improve its competitiveness in global markets. I had the pleasure of introducing a bill to suspend the duty on this same chemical on June 12, 1997 through 1999. Today I introduce a bill to extend the duty suspension through 2000.

THE OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENTS OF RABBI EDGAR GLUCK

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, March 30, 1998

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to call to the attention of our colleagues the outstanding record of our good friend and religious leader, Rabbi Edgar Gluck.

Rabbi Edgar Gluck is a man of exceptional qualities. His hard work and dedication has helped to make his community, New York City and the State of New York a better place. Rabbi Gluck has worked for many years in the public sector. His innovative and intelligent solutions have helped to solve many of today's most pressing problems. Each of Rabbi Gluck's numerous accomplishments have been a reflection of his earnest and profound desire to help others. It is Rabbi Gluck's selfless dedication that makes him the remarkable man he is.

Rabbi Gluck's dedication and perseverance has brought a better life to hundreds of people. Early in his long career Rabbi Gluck fought to incorporate the Hasidic Village of New Square in Rockland County, N.Y. Rabbi Gluck was faced with many obstacles including antisemitism. He petitioned and worked along side government officials and bureaucrats in hopes of helping his community. Rabbi Gluck's diligence, understanding and intelligence made the incorporation of the Village of New Square possible.

Rabbi Gluck has used his insight and intellect to bring about many meaningful changes. Rabbi Gluck has been personally responsible for our Nation's largest and fastest Volunteer Ambulance Corps. What is most remarkable about Rabbi Gluck's accomplishments is that each program, issue or organization he has worked with has involved bettering people's lives. His convictions and love for community is an example for all of us. For bringing about meaningful change.

Mr. Speaker, for my colleagues information about the Rabbi's exemplary life, I would like to submit into the RECORD an article entitled "Rabbi Edgar Gluck: Personifying the Ideal of Service" from the Jewish Press's March 20th, 1998 edition.

RABBI EDGAR GLUCK: PERSONIFYING THE IDEAL OF SERVICE

(By Jason Maoz)

Rabbi Edgar Gluck first navigated the bureaucratic maze of government as a yeshiva bochur back in the days of the Eisenhower administration in the 1950's. Forty-plus years later, in the Clinton 90's, he's still at it full force, utilizing his savvy and his skill, his contacts and his connections, working incessantly on behalf of the community.

A full and detailed account of each of Rabbi Gluck's accomplishments through the years would easily fill half this newspaper; certainly there are too many to list in this space. But it is not very difficult to appreciate the scope of his success: Just think of him the next time you see an Hatzolah ambulance racing to the scene of an accident, or the next time you pass—or use—the designated safe-site for Mincha on the New York State Thruway.

Born in Hamburg, Germany in 1936, Rabbi Edgar Gluck came to the United States at the age of two. His family settled in the Bronx, where as a young boy he attended yeshiva Ahavas Torah. In later years he would learn at Beis Medrash Elyon, Chasam Sofer Rabbinical College and Mesifita Talmudical Seminary.

It was as a talmid at Beis Medrash Elyon that Rabbi Gluck became involved in the battle to incorporate the village of New Square—a particularly fierce battle, given the prevailing anti-Jewish attitudes in neighboring communities—and learned how to deal with all manner of government officials and bureaucrats.

"I was asked by the Rosh Yeshiva to work with some other people on this issue and see if we could make any headway," Rabbi Gluck recalls. "It was a real education, getting to know about all of the various state agencies and how each differs from the other in terms of specific responsibilities. I figured out my way around Albany and made my first trip to the Governor's office—Rockefeller was just starting his first term—and we made steady progress toward achieving our goal."

It took several years and a lot of behind-the-scenes maneuvering, but in 1961 the village of New Square was finally incorporated. Rabbi Gluck saw first-hand that while the wheels of government turn slowly, they do turn; the trick is knowing how to steer.

Rabbi Gluck developed a close relationship in the early 1960's with then-Congressman John Lindsay. After Lindsay became Mayor, Rabbi Gluck was appointed Supervisor and Coordinator of Area Services, charged with overseeing nine field offices of the Mayor's Urban Task Force, the Neighborhood Conservation Bureau, and Neighborhood City Halls in Williamsburg, Boro Park and Coney Island.

"There was so much going on in New York during that period of time, the late Sixties, early Seventies," he says. "I was fortunate to be right in the middle of things, on the local neighborhood level, interacting with so many constituency groups. It helped me gain immeasurably in my knowledge of the communities that make up the city."

Rabbi Gluck continued working in city government under Mayors Beame and Koch, serving as Director of Neighborhood Conservation in the Office of Housing Preservation and Development and as city liaison to the Port Authority Police, the U.S. Departments of Customs and Immigration, and Orthodox communities around the city.

"The Rabbi played a key role in many high-level negotiations," says a former official who worked on some of the same sensitive issues. "Racial problems, crime, health services—these were the city's biggest headaches, and Rabbi Gluck always brought to the table a cool head and an amazing amount of relevant information. I remember that people who dealt with him invariably came away with a great amount of respect for the man."

In 1979, Governor Hugh Carey named Rabbi Gluck Special Assistant to the Director at the New York Division for Youth where, working in tandem with legislators and community leaders, he helped resolve a wide range of local problems. Since 1984 he's served as Special Assistant to the Superintendent of the State Police, acting as liaison between the office of the Superintendent and state and federal lawmakers, government agencies, and private-sector organizations.

The many achievements for which Rabbi Gluck can justly take credit include the Hatzolah Volunteer Ambulance Corp., which he co-founded decades ago and which, he points out with pride. Newsweek magazine has called it the largest such organization in the country, with the fastest response time; the Mincha site on the New York Thruway, which he fought for despite fierce opposition from a number of secular organizations; and the new stipulations—agreed to by Governor Pataki at Rabbi Gluck's behest and now officially written into state contracts—that all construction crews on the Thruway work only until 12 noon on Fridays, a measure that greatly facilitates the flow of traffic up to the Catskills.

Rabbi Gluck has been instrumental in the matter of Jewish cemeteries, working to incorporate the first new Chassidic cemetery in New York State when Grand Rabbi Twersky died and a new cemetery in Monroe when the Satmar Rebbe, Rabbi Joel Teitelbaum, was niftar. He also helped increase the size of the cemetery in Mount Kisco when the Pupa Rebbe, Rabbi Grunwald, passed away.

Dennis Rapps, the executive director and general counsel at COLPA, the National Jewish Commission on Law and Public Affairs, has known Rabbi Gluck for more than 20 years. The two of them have worked closely together on a number of issues and have successfully influenced legislation, perhaps most notably the autopsy law of 1983. Mr. Rapps describes Rabbi Gluck as a "pioneer" on the matter of autopsies and how they affect the Jewish community.

"I personally know so many people," he says, "who have been helped by Rabbi Gluck on autopsies alone. This was the case before we got the law passed and it's the case even now, when there are still problems that can come up. Whether it's help to arrange for a special visa, or to get the medical examiner to release a body in time for a flight to Israel, or to make sure an autopsy is not performed on a loved one who unexpectedly dies while abroad, everyone knows Rabbi Gluck is the one to call—and they call him whenever they need him, many times in the middle of the night. He is truly a remarkable individual."
